THE ELOPEMENT OF AN ONTARIO YOUNG LADY.

Fiery Southern Editors—Spanish Ministry Resigned—Four Men Killed and Brooklyn's Water Supply Stopped by an Accident—Casualty in New York Bay.

LANGSING, Mich., Nov. 23.—Rev. Walter Nelson, a Baptist minister of Bayham, Ont., was arrested at the Commercial hotel on a charge of abducting Miss Rosa Teetzel from St. Thomas. Miss Teetzel is at the hotel, and as she is 21 years old the minister cannot be held on the charge. Nelson and Miss Teetzel came to the hotel together. The latter was clad in a morning wrapper, and had no baggage. They registered under their proper names, and their relations towards each other scrupulously correct. Mr. Nelson says that he married Miss Olive Weiss in Centreville, Ill., a year and lived with her three days when they separated. He went to Bayham and fell in love with Miss Teetzel. Last Friday he invited her to take a ride and she, clad in her wrapper, went with him. They were gone longer than they intended to be, and Miss Teetzel feared to return and explain to her friends her prolonged absence in such a costume. He took her to St. Thomas, whence she was to return home the next morning, while he was to proceed to Illinois to get a divorce. They didn't intend to elope, but Miss Teetzel was unwilling to be left alone, and they finally decided to seek some small western town where she might teach and he preach until he should secure a divorce and be able to marry her. Miss Teetzel is highly connected and has two brothers who are prominent at the Ontario bar.

Fiery Southern Editors.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 23.—The Saturday Evening Telegram, H. V. Seiver, editor, has a furious attack on Benj. Harrison, editor of the Daily Standard. On Monday last a duel was to have come off, but Rev. Fr. Kenney hearing of it had the principals arrested and put under peace bonds of $1000 each. This was thought to be the end of the quarrel, as neither paper had anything further to say about the case, but on Saturday the Standard copied one of the specials sent out Monday night, in which Harrison was made to say that he was not killed or wounded and if the duel did not come off he would shoot Seiver on Bay street with a shotgun. Two other articles were printed, both on the same subject, at which Savier could not take offence. In his afternoon paper Seiver retorted with a bitter article beginning:—"A creature who is almost beneath the contempt of an honorable man, a fellow who is born a conspirator, a liar, a coward, a scoundrel of the basest dye, whose record wherever he has lived has been that of one promoting discord and division, a squirming wretch who thrives on all that is base and fattens in spirit on the contempt that saves him from summary punishment for his misdeeds and baseness—this fellow was grossly insulted in return for one of his cowardly inuendoes, and it was supposed that he had manhood enough about him to invite the party to fight him a duel." It goes on in that strain, and particularly accuses Harrison of sending a challenge and then revealing the place of meeting to Kenney, so it could be stopped. It is the talk of the entire town. Friends of the parties are anxious to patch up a peace, but don't see how they can, as the principals are both hot headed. If they meet in their present state of mind, peace bonds or no peace bonds, there will be trouble. The result is anxiously awaited, and efforts will be made to patch up a truce, but the insult is so deadly that it is uphill work.

Drowned in New York Bay.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23. — Two men battled for life and lost yesterday in the Lower Bay, off the point of Sandy Hook. They were Thos. McKenzie and Francis Laber. They were down at Atlantic Heights yesterday, and about noon decided to return to Brooklyn. A small jib and mainsail boat was secured, and the bow pointed for Fort Hamilton. The sea was rough, but the young men didn't pay any attention to that. Shouting good-bye to their friends on shore they got under way, and the little craft went prancing over the waves until it looked as if she would reach her destination in half an hour. Suddenly those on shore who had been watching the boat gave a cry of horror; the white sail had disappeared and the boat was turned bottom upwards. A squall had struck her. The two young men were seen battling with the waves for a few minutes and then disappeared. Several boats from shore were manned and rowed out to the scene, but no trace of either of the unfortunate young fellows could be found.

John D. Rockefeller Retires.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The fact that John D. Rockefeller has virtually retired from the presidency of the Standard oil company, although apparently ignored, is known in New York, and is a matter of common gossip in the oil trade. Mr. Rockefeller is a pretty sick man. It has not been formally announced that Rockefeller has relinquished the duties of president, but enough information has leaked out through reliable channels to warrant the assertion that such is the case. Daniel O. Day, who for the past decade has been so close to Rockefeller that, it is said, the latter never made an important business move without consulting him, has succeeded to the responsibilities of the presidency. It has been denied that Day has been made president of the company, but it is a fact, nevertheless.

Spanish Ministry Resigns.

MADRID, Nov. 23.—The Spanish Ministry has resigned, and the Queen Regent has instructed Senor Del Castillo to form a new cabinet. The resignation of the old cabinet was precipitated by Senor Silva, who is Minister of the Interior. At a meeting of the cabinet to-day he announced his desire to resign, saying he did not wish to retain his portfolio since he had learned that the politicians of Spain were in accord with the Conservative programme. Premier Castillo tried to dissuade him from the step, but without avail. The Minister of Justice, Senor Villayerdo, thought that the entire cabinet should resign, inasmuch as a political crisis existed. The other members speedily agreed to this view of the case, and turned their resignations over to the Premier, who in turn presented them to the Queen. The latter, after some consultation with the Premier, decided to accept them.

The Earthquake in Japan.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23. — The steamer China arrived from Hong Kong and Yokohama this morning, bringing details of the great earthquake which occurred in Japan on October 28th. The latest official figures up to November 7th show that 4,134 people were killed in the various districts where the earthquake was felt, 6,122 injured, 37,472 houses demolished, 8,157 partly destroyed, 5,534 burned and 182,249 people rendered homeless. At Gifu, where the shock was most severely felt, about a quarter to seven o'clock in the morning a rumbling noise was heard, which was almost instantly followed by a violent shock, making the earth open. The violence of the shaking was alarming, and almost everyone felt as sick as if they were on board a vessel. Houses were completely brought down, their roofs lying on the ground. On both sides of the street people are passing to and fro over these roofs, in many cases finding great difficulty in making a way through the debris. Most of the houses in Gifu were very old, and those which stood the first yielded to the second or the third shock and the majority of them are down. When the first shock came all the people rushed out of their houses at the same time, some being crushed by their falling houses before they could get outside, others being killed by falling wood and tiles after they had got out, and as the debris is not cleared away many may still be buried beneath the ruins.

Short in His Accounts.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Edward W. Wright, general agent in Brooklyn for the Equitable Life Insurance Company, of this city, committed suicide last night by shooting himself through the head. Despondency, resulting from business troubles, is supposed to have been the cause of his taking his life. He was married 11 years ago to a prominent society woman. They did not live happily together, and two years ago she obtained a separation from him. He was ordered to pay alimony, but instead of doing so he went west, where he remained several years. On his return he and his wife lived together again for a short time. Five years ago Mrs. Wright obtained an absolute divorce from him. It is believed he was short in his accounts with the company.

Fixing Grain Rates.

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—A meeting of importance to the northwestern grain trade will be held in St. Paul to-morrow. At present the rates from Northern Minnesota and the two Dakotas are the same to Duluth as to Minneapolis. In consequence the Minneapolis millers claim that they cannot get enough grain, as it goes east via Duluth. At first the Minneapolis mills demanded a rate of 2 cents per hundred pounds less than is made to Duluth, but latterly they have increased their demand to a rate 5 cents lower. The Great Northern system is responsible for placing Duluth, regardless of distance, on an equal footing with Minneapolis. It is said that the Great Northern Railway is willing to readjust rates so that Minneapolis will have a fair chance.

A Royal Wedding.

VIENNA, Nov. 21.—The marriage of the Archduchess Marie Louise of Tuscany, to Prince Frederick Augustus of Saxony, took place to day in the chapel of the imperial palace. The ceremonies, which were grand, were witnessed by the Emperor and Empress of Austria, the King and Queen of Saxony, the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess of Tuscany, Count Kalnoky, all the cabinet ministers, the diplomatic corps, and by a host of princes and princesses. The wedding services commenced at noon, the chapel of the imperial burg being beautifully decorated with flowers and ferns. The cardinal archbishop of Vienna officiated, supported by all the church dignitaries of Austria.

Paying Off Their Mortgages.

TOPEKA, Kansas, Nov. 23.—The Daily Capital publishes a mortgage statement which shows that during the month of October a reduction in farm and city mortgage indebtedness of $361,000 was made, of which $302,000 is on farms. There has been a net reduction of farm mortgage indebtedness in a period of five and a half months of $23,000. These figures are obtained from county registrars of deeds, and are sworn to. This showing proves that the farmers of Kansas are prospering, and that they are fast paying off their debts.

From Chicago to New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—It rather astonished Operator George Hogan at the ship news office last night when he received word of the arrival of the American schooner White Cloud from Chicago. So far as known the White Cloud is the first sailing vessel to reach New York from the inland lakes. She made the trip in 66 days, touching at Montreal and also at Portland, Maine. She passed through the Welland Canal to reach Lake Ontario, and after traversing that lake sailed down the St. Lawrence River. She is loaded with lumber.

THE COURT OF ASSIZE.

MR. JUSTICE CREASE PRESENTS THE CASES TO THE JURY.

The Longest List of Cases Ever Brought Up—The Chief Justice Will Hear the Case Against Young Musgrave To-Morrow—Grand Jury List.

It was fifteen minutes past eleven when Mr. Justice Crease took his seat in the Supreme Court this morning. The names of the petit jury being called David Campbell and Duncan Robertson failed to answer to their names. The following Grand Jury was empanelled: J. J. Austin, foreman; Geo. Walker, John Coughlan, F. Elworthy, W. Croft, P. R. Brown, W. Munsie, L. B. Trimmins, T. B. Hall, D. R. Ker, G. C. Mesher, J. P. Mathews, P. Hickey, G. H. Brown, W. J. Anderson, W. F. Bullen, Geo. Berridge, W. J. Armstrong, L. G. Dumbleton, J. P. Burgess, J. F. Fell, L. Carne, H. Jewell, W. H. T. Drake, D. W. Morrow.

His Lordship, addressing the Grand Jury, said, considering the long list that was to come before them, he would make the preamble as short as consistent. He gave them the usual instructions and remarked that the number of cases up was partly on account of large number of cases coming up so near the assizes. The judge and jury were there for business and they meant business, therefore he would present the cases in an order that would insure the speedy disposal of them.

The first case was that of Reg. vs. Banton, larceny; the second Reg. vs. John Morris and Alex. Carmichael, larceny; the third Reg. vs. Beckman, larceny, and the fourth Reg. vs. Musgrave, arson. The latter case was one of considerable interest, said His Worship. There is a formidable indictment, but the object of it is not so formidable, being a boy 13 years of age. The jury has to be satisfied that the boy knows the difference between good and evil. He had intended to send the depositions to the jury, but in looking over them he found that there were no mention of the prisoner having any counsel at the examination nor did they mention the presence of the childs parents or guardian or anyone representing the parents. He therefore thought it better to have the witnesses appear before the judge. Any little boy picked up in the street generally has some one to stand by him and see what is going on in his behalf. No favor is to be shown on account of the boy's good family. An infant between the ages of seven and 14 years is presumed not to be capable of committing a felony, but malice supplies age.

The other cases are: Reg. v. Davis, larceny; Reg. vs. Fox, attempting to murder; Reg. vs. Bennett, forgery and obtaining money under false pretenses; Reg. vs. Haydon, adultery; Reg. vs. Harker, rape; Reg. vs. John Day, receiving stolen goods and larceny; Reg. vs. Burke, highway robbery; Reg. vs. Morgan, forgery and obtaining money under false pretenses; Reg. vs. Wilson and Lee, sodomy; Reg. vs. Riley Robins, burglary; Reg. vs. Robinson, cattle killing and stealing; Reg. vs. Ross, larceny; Reg. vs. Sako, larceny; Reg. vs. Carey, larceny and receiving stolen goods; Reg. vs. Capt. Bill, (Indian) rescuing prisoners; Reg. vs. Keene, rape. The other cases were left over. The case of Reg. vs. Musgrave will be heard by the Chief Justice to-morrow if the grand jury bring in a true bill against him. Messrs. Smith and Walls appeared for the Attorney-General, the deputy Attorney-General being present, but not taking part.

On the court re assembling at 2 p.m., the grand jury brought in true bills in the following cases: Reg. vs. Banton, larceny; Reg. vs. Morris and Carmichael; Reg. vs. Musgrave, arson; Reg. vs. Davis.

The first case called was that of Mary Banton, charged with the larceny of a lot of jewelry. Mr. Walls appeared for the prosecution and Mr. S. P. Mills for the defence. The jurors were, J. J. Auld, foreman; A. H. Bridgman, A. Neil, L. Stemler, H. J. Martin, Wm. Bull, I. Walsh, J. F. Turner, H. Hounslow, J. Calvert, Thos. G. Wood and Wm. Holmes.

The evidence given was the same as that given in the Police Court a few days ago.

MURDERED IN THE WOODS.

A Horrible Tragedy Reported From the Rainy River Country.

WEST SUPERIOR, Wis., Nov. 18.—C. B. Gear, who has a claim about 20 miles from Grand Rapids, Minn., and who is in Superior, told a story of fearful bloodshed in the wilds near the Canadian boundary. Mr. Gear is a Canadian, who has been in this country about four years, and for the greater part of that time has lived in the heart of Minnesota, where he now resides. His errand to this city was to look up some relative of Jas. McBride, a Canadian also, who is now lying in a critical condition at his home on a claim adjacent to the one occupied by Gear. McBride is a young man, unmarried, and came to this country from near Port Huron some three years ago. Since that time he has been with Gear more or less. About a year ago a sister of McBride's was married to a Canadian named Wilson. Shortly after they removed to Wisconsin and probably to Superior, although Gear has been unable to find them.

Gear says McBride joined a hunting party which went some weeks ago up the Canadian border on Rainy Lake to spend a winter in hunting. On Friday McBride returned in a deplorable condition with his clothes torn, his arm broken, his feet and hands frostbitten. He is delirious most of the time.

McBride and Thomas Redding, who had charge of the whiskey, one day refused to give out any more. Honey Hahn and another member of the party tied Redding to a tree and with a gun blew the top of his head off, killing him instantly. A man named Bruce, who had interceded for Redding, was murdered in the same way. The party drove McBride out of the camp. The murderers helped themselves to whiskey and became very drunk before killing Bruce and Redding. The tragedy happened near the Indian reservation not far from Pelican Lake. It is feared that McBride will lose his reason altogether.

Mr. Gear found some Canadian friends of his here yesterday and learned that Mrs. Wilson, McBride's sister, had gone to Larimore, North Dakota. Gear returned home last night, having telegraphed from here.

NEW WESTMINSTER NEWS.

Louis Davis' Sentence—The Westminster Southern Road.

NEW WESTMINSTER, Nov. 23.—Louis Davis, of Vancouver, found guilty of perjury last week, was sentenced this morning to three years in the penitentiary at hard labor. Davis expected a lighter sentence and is much cut up over the one imposed.

Work on the Southern Railway is practically completed. Engines have been hauling long trains of flat cars up and down the line all day. Passenger trains are expected to be on December 1st, traffic to be inaugurated by a big excursion from [illegible] intermediate points.

Three candidates for mayor: W. J. Walker, [illegible] ningham and W. B. Townsend.

NANAIMO NEWS.

The Conspiracy Case—A Large Bid for Property.

NANAIMO, Nov. 23.—The conspiracy case against Mr. Keith, M.P.P., Tully Boyce and Arthur Wilson was brought to a close late on Saturday night, and the result is that Keith and Boyce have been committed to the assizes for trial, while Wilson is held in bonds of $1500 to appear to any indictment that may be preferred against him. The case was one of the most remarkable that has ever been heard in Nanaimo, involving as it did so many tangled threads, but the perserverance of both judge and counsel succeeded in unweaving it. The most difficult task of the prosecution was the tracing of the notice which was posted on the pithead. It was eventually discovered that this had been destroyed, but a copy was produced and the type-writer gave evidence to this fact. William Neive, secretary of Branch No. 1 was the most important witness, and his evidence implicated the defendants, although the minute book produced by him was not clear on many points. There appeared to be considerable difficulty in producing several reports and in explaining minutes in the minute book and the court was compelled to adjourn several times in order to obtain the necessary papers. The case occupied two full days and created considerable interest, both outside and inside the court room. Much excitement prevailed last evening when it became known that the case had been sent to the assizes, and that the defendants were under heavy bonds for their appearance. At the last moment the prosecutor was approached and asked to withdraw it but it was then too late, and the outcome is now awaited with much anxiety. Considerable sympathy is expressed for Boyce, now that he is in trouble, and many of his former opponents are fast becoming his friends. It is possible a change of venue may be applied for and have the trial take place in Victoria.

A BIG OFFER.

It is reported that Mr. John Mahrer, proprietor of the Nanaimo Opera House, made an offer to A. Mayer and Co. of $16,000 for the property owned by them on the corner of Bastion and Commercial streets. This property adjoins the Opera House, and is by the side of the recent property which Mr. Mahrer bought for $13,000. Should the latter succeed in obtaining this piece of property he will become the owner of the most valuable block in the city.

LITTLE EVENTS.

The fancy bazaar at Wellington netted $440 clear towards the building fund of the new Episcopal church.

Mr. H. Good, late station agent for Nanaimo, succeeds Mr. J. Crossan in the position of preventive officer.

Parties hunting at night with pit lamps are said to be mistaking horses for deer, which several wounded horses plainly testify.

A wrestling match has been arranged between Paddy Maher and Joe Beacher for $255 a side. The match will take place in the Opera House on December 5th, catch-as-catch-can style.

Donald Notes.

Nov. 15th.—M. Kilchin, who was serving a term of one month in Donald jail for assault on J. M. Carrol, of Beaver, escaped from custody while out at work, and was recaptured at Moberly House, twelve miles from Donald, by Officer Harold Redgrave, and brought back to Donald. A. P. Cummins, Esq., S. M., committed him for trial.

Nov. 21st.—There is about one foot of snow and it is still snowing. The lowest temperature this winter was 9 below zero.

George Newman has returned with his bride, nee Pender, who resided in Donald for about a year, and who left about two months ago. They were heartily welcomed back again.

Mrs. McDowell, the daughter of Sheriff Redgrave, who has been confined to her bed for about two months with sickness, is no better.

Donald is now very quiet.

Mr. Edwards and sister-in-law, Miss Jones, leave to-day on a visit to Victoria.

A Serious Accident.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—As a result of the big break in the conduit in East New York Saturday afternoon, by which four men were killed, Brooklyn is on the verge of a water famine. There is scarcely enough water in the Ridgeway reservoir to last, with the utmost care, over 12 or 16 hours.

SAM GREER'S CASE.

A Meeting Held at Vancouver Strongly Sympathizes With the Prisoner.

Sunday's News-Advertiser.]

The announcement of a meeting last evening to discuss the Greer case and to express sympathy towards his wife and family filled the market hall to overflowing. Every seat and every foot of standing room was occupied by eight o'clock. The feeling expressed by the speakers and the audience was unanimously in favor of a new trial being granted Mr. Greer. A good sum was taken up in a collection to go toward bearing the costs of the application for a new trial.

On motion of Mr. W. Shannon, Mr. J. Trytnall was voted to the chair.

On rising he said he regretted that Dr. Wilson, whom it was intended should fill the chair, was absent. He hoped the subject would be discussed temperately yet with due independence. The subject, he said, affected not one man, but referred to everyone in the whole Dominion. It was a question of might against right. He would be exceedingly glad to see the writer of a letter in the World, signed "Justicia," appear and state his case.

He then called upon Rev. R. R. Maitland to move the first resolution. That gentleman in rising said it was with pleasure he discussed the question that had been before the people of this city for the past few days. He moved the following resolution, which was seconded by Dr. McGuigan:

"Resolved, that in the opinion of this meeting it is important in the interest of justice that Mr. Samuel Greer should have a new trial."

The people of this meeting, he continued, were asked to express their opinion upon this resolution. He was a believer in British fair play, and if the consensus of opinion, when all the facts of the case are before the people, are against the resolution, he would gladly submit. He believed in man's justice and God's justice. He believed that nowhere should justice be better obtained than on British soil. Justice, though, should be always tempered with mercy, especially toward the weak. He would not attempt to justify any man who attempted to violate the laws by which he was protected, but he believed it was far from the intention of Mr. Greer to do bodily harm, and if he did not believe that he would never have appeared on that platform. If, as had been stated, the judge came down from the bench to give evidence against the accused, if he charged villainy, perjury and forgery, if he charged that this man, for nine years, had only had a record of crime it might justly be asked when were those crimes committed, and what has the people of British Columbia to say regarding the actions of this man during the past? He believed justice would be served by a rehearing of this case. In the interest of justice, if this man has been a forger, a perjurer and a thief, he should come before the judge again to be sentenced to a longer term of imprisonment. Such a charge, however, had not been laid, and he believed that, with the exception of this case, nothing alleged against Greer has been proven. He had no fault to find with the jury, but if they brought in a verdict of accidental shooting, or shooting while temporarily insane, which would have made him guiltless, and afterwards brought in a verdict of guilty, they were to be condemned. (Cheers.)

Dr. McGuigan received an enthusiastic reception. He said he had known Mr. Greer since he came to the province in 1885, and had been his family physician, and he had not found him the blood-stained, guilty man the Chief Justice had called him. He had always found him an honest man. He had taken considerable interest in the lawsuit Greer was carrying on with the C. P. R., and in this, after discussing it at many times, he believed Greer was in the right. The officers of the law may have been within the authority of their position when they made the seizure, yet he did not believe that Greer had intent to do injury on that occasion. It would not do for public opinion to rule the courts of justice, but when the people were so much in sympathy with a new trial being granted he thought that in the interest of justice and to set the public mind at rest, a new trial should be granted. (Applause.)

Mr. John McLennan and Mr. W. J. Gallagher were called on, but they were not present.

The chairman then read the resolution and called upon anyone who wished, "Justicia" preferred, to come forward to speak against the resolution or to introduce a contrary one. No one appearing, the chairman put the motion, which was carried, the whole house rising en masse. The nays being called no one arose, so the motion was declared carried unanimously amid cheers.

Mr. W. McCraney was called on to move the second resolution. He echoed the sentiments of the previous speakers. From his short acquaintance with Mr Greer he had always found him an intelligent, honest and agreeable man. He had found nothing to justify the severe charges that had been made against him by the judge in his address to the jury. He did know that Mr Greer was a true British subject, and he believed a new trial should be granted him. He then read the following resolution:

"Resolved, that we hereby tender to to Mrs. Greer, for herself and her little ones, the assurance of our sympathy with them in the painful circumstances in which they have been placed by the imprisonment of Mr. Greer and by the eviction from their home whilst the question of title to the property is still before the courts, and we hereby call upon the benevolently disposed of our city to contribute generously towards the support of Mrs. Greer and her family; also towards meeting the costs incurred in seeking and obtaining a rehearing of Mr. Greer's case before the Court of Appeals."

He was sure all would agree with the resolution. All must feel great sympathy for Mrs. Greer in her affliction. If anything could be done he was sure the citizens would do all they could. Liberty and justice are the reward of eternal vigilance, and while we believe that the courts of justice in Canada are as pure as any in the world, yet justice is possible to me miscarried in some places and we believe there has been a mistake in this case. The jury made a mistake after exonerating Mr. Greer in going back on that and returning a verdict of guilty. He would say that men were liable to make mistakes, and he thought that Mr. Greer deserved a new trial. He had deep sympathy for Mrs. Greer and her family in their trying circumstances.

Rev. J. M. McLeod, in rising to second the resolution, said the meeting was gathered, not to interfere with the right administration of justice, but with the determination that every man should have British justice and fair play. He was one who felt in the eviction of Mr. Greer and in the trial, and especially in the verdict, that there was neither justice nor mercy. With regard to Mr. Greer's legal claim to the property, he held he was unable to give an intelligent opinion, but the case had been before the courts again and again and judgments have been given to one side as often as to the other. How then, he asked, could the judge say that his title to this property was held by perjury, falsehood and villainy? Such a statement was an insult to the judges and juries who in previous cases had given a verdict for Mr. Greer. As he understood it, Mr. Greer was once tried for perjury and forgery and he was acquitted honorably. How then could this man stand up and accuse Mr. Greer of those crimes? He believed that the Chief Justice had acted at least with impropriety; for it is not safe to speak against the powers that he headed. Why did he gather up all the country gossip against Mr. Greer, and why, in fairness, did he not gather up all the stories of Mr. Greer's generosity and kindness of heart on the other side, that justice might have been done? He thought the judge might have let the good stand over against the bad in Mr. Greer's character. It was not, and could not be proven, that Mr. Greer acted with any intention to harm those officials. He believed that previously officers of the law had come to him with bogus authority, and how could he be blamed for thinking that the authority of these men was bogus also? Was not an Englishman's house his castle, and who would not defend his house with firearms even if necessary?

Rev. H. P. Robson said he did not know much about the transfer of property or the rights of Mr. Greer to that property, but he did know that Mr. Greer still firmly believed that he had a right to that property. He had been intimately acquainted with all the members of Mr. Greer's family, two of his daughters were teachers in his Sunday school, and he would say that there was not a kinder family in the city. When he read the remarks of the Chief Justice regarding Mr. Greer, he could not understand a man whom he had always found to be genial and kind could be of so black a character as he had been painted.

Rev. H. G. F. Clinton was then called on. He said that as he was not yet convinced that Mr. Greer was imprisoned illegally and as the majority did not seem to be of that opinion, he would refrain for the present from expressing his opinion, which might cause an uproar.

Rev. J. F. Betts arose to move the third and last resolution. When asked to speak at the meeting he declined on the ground that he was not fully enough informed on the question. He had nothing to say against the administration of justice, and he was willing to let the question of Mr. Greer's right to his property be left to the courts of justice. He could, however, move his resolution without much knowledge of the case. He then read the following resolution:—

"Resolved, that this meeting appoint a committee of three, with power to add to their numbers, for the purpose of soliciting subscriptions from the citizens. This committee to be composed of the following gentlemen: Dr. McGuigan, Ald. C. L. Brown and Mr. Lewis Carter."

He still believed that justice would be better served by a rehearing of the case. The courts of justice were not infallible, but still justice should be administered so as to satisfy the sense of right within the people. If it be true that a great syndicate has set its heel upon the neck of a single individual, every man's blood should tingle with indignation to see that that individual should not be wronged. He had only read the newspaper reports of the case, and however admirable they were in many cases, sometimes the people should read between the lines. He, therefore, would not condemn the Chief Justice upon what he knew of the case.

Mr. W. Shannon, in seconding the motion, said he had been acquainted with Mr. Greer for 23 years, when they together were early settlers of Chilliwhack. He stated that Mr. Greer was then a constable and collector of dues on cattle. He was a very good officer and often upheld the law at the danger of his life. He related an incident in which he showed great bravery in quelling a disturbance among the Indians. Mr. Greer was a favorite rather than otherwise in the settlement, though in the carrying out of his duties he made enemies. He was acquainted with the Chief Justice; he had been a terror to evil doers in times past, but he believed that now Sir Matthew Begbie was reaching his second childhood. He would say as to the Chief Justice that Greer's case came up before him when it was first was before the courts and then Sir Matthew Begbie gave judgment that unless Greer was a forger and perjurer he should have a deed to the land. Greer had been arrested on these two charges and acquitted honorably by a jury. A committee of the Legislature, of which Judge Bole was chairman, had enquired into his case and decided in Greer's favor, and the House had sustained that finding, only four voting against it.

Rev. Joseph Hall was the last speaker. This meeting, he said, meant that the people of Vancouver had the conviction that an injustice had been done and they wished to lift up their voices against it. He thought that when the first verdict of the jury was brought in, which practically meant acquittal, that it should have been amended only to make it in compliance with the legal form, and upon retiring the second time they should have been instructed to bring in a verdict of "not guilty."

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

During the evening a collection was taken up in aid of Mrs. Greer and to go towards defraying necessary legal expenses, when $113.65 was taken up.

THE CHAIRMAN OF THE TRUSTEES CALLS AN OFFICER

To Quell a War of Words Between Himself and Trustee McLaughlin and Morrow—Stormy Session of the School Board on Saturday Evening.

The Board of School Trustees held a special meeting on Saturday evening, Chairman Haywood presiding, and Trustees Morrow, McLaughlin, Saunders, McKay and McConnon present. After the minutes of the last meeting had been adopted, the chairman and Trustees Morrow and McLaughlin engaged in a wrangle over the tenders for stoves, the two latter gentlemen claiming that they had not been spoken to on the matter. The chairman ruled them out of order and the secretary proceeded to bring up regular business.

While the secretary was going over the communications, Chairman Hayward remarked, "I thought section 38 would bring these gentlemen back." This brought Trustees McLaughlin and Morrow to their feet, who said they had not come to the meeting to be insulted by the chairman.

The Chairman—Order! order! order!

Trustees Morrow and McLaughlin—We are in order.

The Chairman—You are not in order. Mr. Saunders, will you please call in the chief of police? I will have order here.

A letter was read from S. D. Pope, secretary of the Board of Public Instruction, as follows:

VICTORIA, Nov. 14, 1891.

B. Williams, Esq., Secretary of the Board of School Trustees:

DEAR SIR,—I wrote you some time ago requesting that if the Council of Public Instruction could not be supplied with the unimpeachable evidence in possession of the School Trustees they might at least be furnished with the names of the witnesses from which the unimpeachable evidence was obtained.

I am now instructed to say that the Council of Public Instruction hopes the board may still see its way to furnish the unimpeachable evidence; but if not, I am to request that there may be no delay in supplying the names of the witnesses for the use of the Council of Public Instruction.

Yours truly,
(Signed) S. D. POPE,
Sec. Council of Public Instruction.

On motion it was decided to furnish the evidence referred to as well as the witnesses.

Miss Murton, who was recently appointed to the Hillside ward school, asked that she be given until the beginning of the next term before taking charge of the school.

The Chairman said the appointing of the new teachers to start work on the 1st of December was a gross waste of public money, there only being a few days left in this term after the 1st of December. It was the work of the "caucus."

Trustee McLaughlin again sprang to his feet and indignantly resented the last few words used by the chairman, which he claimed were insulting to members of the board. The chairman, he said, had insulted members of the board in every motion brought up.

The chairman—"Go and get a police officer, Mr. Secretary. I will have order here."

The secretary went for the chief of police, who said he was at the chairman's service, but evidently thought, as others did, that it was hardly worth while troubling himself about the quarrel in a place usually used for settling quarrels—viz., the police court.

Order was finally restored and it was moved that Miss Murton be notified that her services would not be required until the opening of next session.

Trustee McLaughlin did not object to the motion, but he did to the words used by the chairman about the caucus. The words used were altogether foreign to the matter. At the last meeting the chairman had produced a financial statement to bring in a few words which could be explained. Referring to the Government representatives on the board and the chairman, Mr. McLaughlin said, "You have resolutions ready when you come here, but I will not say 'caucus.'"

M. J. Knight complained that his boy had been cut across the face by Mr. Smith, a teacher. The matter was referred to Mr. Smith for explanation.

The Sehl-Hastie-Erskine Furniture Company wrote, stating that the new desks had arrived, and enclosing invoice for same, viz., $2,015.25. On motion it was decided to pay the company $1000 on account and empower the chairman to arrange for the placing of the desks.

Trustee McLaughlin thought that was giving too much power to one member of the board.

Trustee Saunders—"We have confidence in the chairman."

Trustee McLaughlin—"So have I—in that respect." (Looking at the resolution.) "They are all in the same handwriting. Evidently they were prepared before they were brought here."

The secretary read several bills which no one on the board knew anything about, so they were referred back for enquiry.

Trustee McKay moved that insurance be distributed as follows: "Two thousand dollars on the building in Victoria West, with the B.C. Fire Insurance Co.; $1000 on that in James Bay, with the Royal; $1000 on the Hillside school, with the National, and $1000 on the Spring Ridge school, with the Citizens."

Trustees Morrow and McLaughlin—"Same old handwriting."

Trustee McKay, who is rather deaf, thought that the trustees had said something concerning him, and he remarked that he attended the meetings for business, not to wrangle.

Trustees Morrow and McLaughlin expressed themselves as being sorry if they had hurt Mr. McKay's feelings, but, said the latter, the resolution was written outside of the board meeting. The chairman had insisted that if several men put their heads together they were holding a caucus, and this must have been done by the "trio," so their gathering could be fairly called a caucus. He, however, did not object to that.

In answer to the chairman, Trustee McKay stated that he had not spoken to any of the trustees outside of the meeting.

The motion on being put was carried unanimously.

The chairman referred to the prize of $20 offered by Messrs. Nicholles & Renouf for the best sketch of one of the busts presented by them to the schools. It was decided to request the principals of the schools to state what they considered would be the best way to arrange the competition.

The Secretary announced that the tenders for new stoves had been awarded at special meeting held in Trustee McConnan's office.

Trustees Morrow and McLaughlin asked why they had not been invited to attend that meeting, and who had convened it?

The secretary said he had gone to Trustee Saunders and told him to attend at the request of the chairman.

Trustee Morrow—The specifications state that the whole board must award the contract.

The Chairman—The contract was awarded to the lowest tenderer. Speaking to Trustees Morrow and McLaughlin he said: "I supposed that you were honorable men. You said that you would not attend another meeting."

Trustee McLaughlin—I will not have that. Don't you say it.

Trustee Morrow—You can't show where we said we would not attend meetings of the board.

Trustee McLaughlin—Trustee Richards when he said that he would not attend perhaps knew that a bad cold was coming on and that he would not be able to attend. I am sorry to say he could not attend this evening on account of a cold.

The action of the trustees awarding the contract for the stoves was confirmed.

The chairman, in referring to a letter from the teachers stating that they would notify parents of the absence of pupils if the board furnished them with stationery, said he thought it would be a good idea to furnish them with postal cards for that purpose. It would prevent truancy. It was decided to carry out the suggestions of the chairman.

The chairman's suggestion that the council be applied to for the use of the northwest corner of Beacon Hill Park, just above Marvin's hill, for the new school was also ordered to be carried out.

The necessity of having the printing done for the semi-annual examinations being mentioned, brought out another lively discussion.

Trustee McLaughlin said the Education Department should do the printing. The board had been told that they had nothing to do with the interior working of the schools and that they should not interfere with statutory obligations. He requested the secretary to read the letter from the secretary of Public Instruction on this point, but the chairman ruled him out of order.

Trustee McLaughlin, continuing, said the department thought it was too expensive a job for them and so they had notified Principal Netherby to ask the board to have the printing done.

The chairman—Who told you that Mr. Netherby had been instructed to write this letter?

Trustee McLaughlin—Mr. Netherby himself.

Trustee McConnan moved that the secretary be authorized to have the necessary papers printed.

Trustee McLaughlin moved in amendment that "the board consider it contrary to the rules and regulations to interfere with the internal workings of the schools."

The chairman ruled the amendment out of order and the original motion carried, Trustees McLaughlin and Morrow dissenting.

Trustee McLaughlin's resolution of want of confidence in the chairman next came up.

Trustees McLaughlin and Morrow thought it would be better taste to leave that over till there was a full board present, but Trustee McConnan moved a resolution stating that the board has confidence in the chairman and his motion was carried, the "trio" voting yea and the "duo" voting nay.

The chairman then allowed the secretary to read Supt. Pope's letter of the 14th of August, which is as follows:

VICTORIA, Aug. 17th, 1891.

DEAR SIR:—I have to acknowledge receipt of your communication of the 14th inst., with copy of resolution passed at last meeting of the Board of Trustees, asking me to "return for inspection to the principal of the schools all examination papers in connection with the recent examinations."

In reply I would state that it is the general practice of teachers to hold frequent written examinations, thereby enabling them to correct defects on the part of pupils and otherwise properly to supplement daily instruction. The semi-annual written examinations held by this department are conducted mainly with a view to determine how well each teacher has performed his duties, and whether or not intelligent instruction has been given.

Allow me to point out that no authority whatever is given to trustees by the School Act to interfere in any way with the teacher in regard to the work of pupils in the schoolroom. The direction of the internal working of the schools is vested by statute in this department, and no interference with the administration of its statutory obligations can be allowed. It must therefore be apparent that the request of your board cannot be entertained.

Yours truly, S. D. POPE.
Supt. of Education.

R. Erskine, Esq., Sec. Board of Trustees.

The last paragraph was the one referred to by Trustee McLaughlan when he objected to the board bearing the expense of printing the examination papers.

A QUARTER OF A CENTURY AGO
There settled in Baker county, Oregon, near what is now Baker City, a man who has since become identified with the resources and development of that country. This man is no other than Mr. John Stewart, one of the wealthiest and most influential citizens in the county. In a recent letter he says: "I had been suffering from pains in my back and general kidney complaint for some time, and had used many remedies without any but temporary relief. The pains in my back had become so severe that I was prevented from attending to my work and cannot move about without the use of a cane. Hearing through a friend, of the wonderful cures effected by Oregon Kidney Tea, I was induced to try a box, and from that very first dose I found instant relief, and before using half the contents of the box the pains in my back entirely disappeared. I have every faith in the virtues of the Oregon Kidney Tea, and can conscientiously recommend it to my friends. I would not be without it for anything."
Oregon Kidney Tea cures backache, incontinence of urine, brick dust sediment, burning or painful sensation while urinating, and all affections of the kidney or urinary organs of either sex.

THE SCHOOL BOARD.

The Council of Public Instruction must be in a wonderfully gracious mood these days, since it is willing to allow the Victoria School Board the high privilege of bearing the cost of printing the papers for the semi-annual examinations. What a descent is this from the lofty position taken by Superintendent Pope in his famous letter to the Board of August 17. He then snubbed the Board in this fashion:—"Allow me to point out that no authority whatever is given to trustees by the School Act to interfere in any way with the teacher in regard to the work of pupils in the schoolroom. The direction of the internal working of the schools is vested by statute in this department, and no interference with the administration of its statutory obligations can be allowed. It must therefore be apparent that the request of your board cannot be entertained." The request referred to was that the Superintendent return to the principal of the High School the papers used at the previous examination, in connection with which the wonderful marking up and marking down feat of the Department was performed. That was trenching on the sacred domain of the Department, but it seems that it is quite within the province of the Board to bear the cost of printing the papers with which they have nothing else to do. The interpretation of the School Act by the Department is quite as remarkable as its manipulation of the Latin papers of scholars in the High School.

Chairman Hayward's action in regard to this matter, and in fact his conduct all through Saturday night's meeting, was not such as to commend itself to the people of this city, whose interests he is supposed to further. His aim seemed to be to show himself an autocrat after Mr. Robson's own heart. When Mr. McLaughlin asked that Superintendent Pope's letter be read as bearing on the question of the examination papers, he was asking for nothing out of the way, and the chairman was wrong in ruling him out of order. When the letter was read it plainly justified Mr. McLaughlin's attitude, but then the motion had been passed and the Board had committed itself to incurring an expense which the Department wanted to shift from its own shoulders to those of the city. The calling of a special meeting of the Board in Mr. McConnan's shop without notifying Messrs. McLaughlin, Morrow and Richards was also a remarkable action. Those three gentlemen are members of the Board, and ignoring them in such a case was ill-mannered, if not quite illegal. In short, the chairman's course, as said before, does not seem commendable, and goes far to justify the position of the three trustees who entered objections against him. His call for the Chief of Police to preserve order was not only unnecessary but absurd, since there could not have been the slightest fear of a breach of the peace.

THE LIEUT.-GOVERNORSHIP.

The Vancouver News-Advertiser appears as an apologist for the selection of Mr. Dewdney as the successor of Lieut.-Governor Nelson, but it appears to us that its manner of presenting the apology is rather damaging to its cause. After noticing the fact that there is a considerable feeling in favor of the appointment of Mr. Mara to the position, and acknowledging that those who entertain this feeling are right in regarding Mr. Mara as a fit and proper person for the post, the News-Advertiser says:

But there are circumstances which, we are sure, only require to be called to the recollection of those who have asked for the appointment of the member for Yale instead of Mr. Dewdney to cause them to coincide heartily with the arrangement proposed by the Premier. Nearly two years ago we stated that Mr. Dewdney would, unless anything unforeseen occurred, be Mr. Nelson's successor, and we made that announcement on the fact of a promise made by Sir John Macdonald. Mr. Abbott, while of course reserving to himself the right (as its exercise might be in the interests of the country) to hold himself free from any responsibility for obligations incurred by his predecessor, still feels desirous of carrying out the intentions of the distinguished dead where it is possible, and especially, as in this case, when by doing so he will have still greater scope for the thorough accomplishment of the task he has in hand. We have every confidence that those who have suggested other arrangements will themselves be among the first to signify to Mr. Abbott their hearty acquiescence in that intended by him, especially as it is well-known that the gentleman whose name has been so intimately connected with the matter is himself quite willing to continue in the position to which his friends and neighbors elected him. Such being the case, it may be considered that British Columbians have again shown that the public interests hold the first place with them.

We may be allowed to remind the Advertiser that the people of British Columbia do not object to Mr. Dewdney's appointment solely because they would rather see Mr. Mara in the office, but also because they regard Mr. Dewdney as quite unfit for the place. This being the case, our contemporary's plea that Mr. Dewdney's appointment is admissible because Mr. Mara and his friends are willing that it should come about, goes somewhat wide of the mark. It will be noticed that the Advertiser carefully refrains from arguing that the objections to Mr. Dewdney per se are not well founded or that his personal character is such as to justify his appointment. It wants British Columbians to accept Mr. Dewdney because he was promised the position by Sir John Macdonald and because his removal from the ministry would help Premier Abbott in the work of re-organization. In other words, the Premier wants to make Carey Castle a store-room for useless Cabinet timber, and British Columbians are expected, like good and submissive children, to offer no objection. Mr. Dewdney is not good enough for the ministry, but he is quite good enough for the governorship of this Province. That view may commend itself to the News-Advertiser, and even to Mr. Mara, but we believe the great majority of the people of British Columbia are not quite ready to adopt it. Mr. Dewdney's career has not been such as to secure him respect from the people, and he should not be pitchforked into the governorship simply because his presence in the Cabinet is no longer desired. Let him sink back into private life, where he properly belongs.

It is announced in the Canadian Manufacturer that the Dominion Government has removed the duty on flax seed and degras.

Friends of R. H. McGreevy fear he cannot live long in exile, and it is said they will make efforts to enable him to return to Canada.

Rev. J. A. Macdonald, editor of the Knox College Monthly, has been inducted into the pastorate of Knox church, St. Thomas.

A son of Daniel Buffoon, of Macdonald's corners, while out shooting partridges, was killed by the accidental discharge of his gun.

A rumor is current that the Canadian Pcific Railway Company will start a telephone company in Montreal in opposition to the Bell Company.

Voting on the repeal of the Scott Act in Charlotte County, New Brunswick, yesterday resulted in its being once more sustained by a good majority.

Hon. Geo. Duhamel has taken action for $10,000 damages against Le Monde for alleged libellous articles published in that paper in connection with recent scandals.

A local company is being organized in Halifax to run a line of freight steamers between Halifax, London and Liverpool. A large portion of stock has been subscribed.

News comes from Three Rivers that in the contested election cases Sir Hector paired off with Freemont, Liberal member of Parliament for Quebec county, and Carignan with Ledue.

The following election petitions have been dismissed by the courts: A. McNeill, North Bruce, Conservative; Col. Tisdale, South Norfolk, Conservative; John Charlton, North Norfolk, Liberal.

A cablegram says that Lord Ouslow, the Governor of New Zealand, who has just resigned, will probably return home in February or March via Vancouver, and spend some time in Canada.

A young man named Moore, from Hamilton Corners, near Ottawa, was accidentally shot by a comrade, Lynch, whilst cleaning a rifle. The bullet entered Moore's left side below the ribs. His death is expected.

Near Lonsdale, Hastings County, James McGinnis, it is alleged, struck Murt Ford with a club, a row having occurred at a ploughing bee. Ford died from concussion of the brain. The alleged murderer is under arrest.

The city solicitor of Toronto has issued a writ against the Ontario & Quebec railway company as successor to the Credit Valley railway, claiming $500,000 damages for the removal of the workshops of the company to Toronto Junction.

R. Truax, Liberal M. P. for East Bruce, has been unseated: Judges Street and Falconbridge, in the South Ontario election case, to-day decided that the evidence of the services rendered by the Grand Trunk Railway to the Liberal p[illegible]y was admissable.

Wm. F. Mackenzie, carriage manufacturer at Leamington, assigned. He owes $7000, including $300 to the Wigle estate. A rough estimate places the liabilities of the Wigle failure at $100,000 and the assets include a $40,000 chattel mortgage. A compromise is likely.

A very clever counterfeit Yankee dollar is being extensively circulated in the northwestern states. The principal defect in it is around the scroll work around the figure two in the right hand upper corner. It is intended to form the word "two," but has the letters reversed.

The father of John Halestone, living near Belleville, who was reported to have committed suicide Oct. 4, after shooting his wife, has made a sworn deposition to the effect that Halestone was murdered by his own son, assisted by his wife and a brother-in-law named Cooper.

Mr. Van Horne has written to the city solicitor of Toronto, stating that an agreement has been arrived at between the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk regarding all matters in connection with the esplanade and Union Station, except the plans of the station, which are in a fair way of being speedily completed.

In the Supreme Court at Ottawa the case of the G.N.W. Tel. Co. vs. Montreal Tel. Co. was dismissed with costs. In this case the court held that the agreement between appellants and the Montreal Telegraph Co., in virtue of which they entered into an obligation to pay the shareholders of the latter a dividend of 8 per cent. on leased lines was binding.

Lord Kilcoursie, the military secretary of the Governor-General, utterly denies the statement of the alleged intention of Lord Stanley to retire, which was published in London Truth. This, Lord Kilcoursie says, is an annual announcement. It is certain that Lord Stanley will last out his term to May, 1893, at any rate. He thinks that Truth goes on fiction for facts, and on its imagination for statistics.

The Globe's London correspondent says: Sir Charles Tupper has been appointed a director of the General Mining Company, a small concern with a capital of £300,000 sterling, owning mines in Nova Scotia. Sir Charles' nomination to the board of the Bank of British Columbia occasioned surprise, and his acceptance of the post again raises the question whether an active share in the control of public companies is consistent with the conditions of the tenure of the post of High Commissioner.

The report of the Bureau of Industries shows the yield of again in Ontario this year as extraordinarily large. Wheat and oats are far above the average. Crops of wheat—spring and fall—are estimated at 32,584,026 bushels, nearly half as much again as the crop of 1890. The oat crop exceeds that of last year by more than 22,000,000 bushels, while the average per acre is the highest in ten years. The root crops are enormous, but the potatoes are much damaged by rot. The acreage of barley sown is 148,000 less than last year, yet the crop is 541,737 bushels larger, owing to the great yields. The acreage sown in fall wheat this fall is 15 per cent. greater than that sown in 1890, but the prospects of the yield are hardly as good as last year.

Mothers

Castoria is recommended by physicians for children teething. It is a purely vegetable preparation, its ingredients are published around each bottle. It is pleasant to the taste and absolutely harmless. It relieves constipation, regulates the bowels, quiets pain, cures diarrhœa and wind colic, allays feverishness, destroys worms, and prevents convulsions, soothes the child and gives it refreshing and natural sleep. Castoria is the children's panacea—the mothers' friend. 35 doses, 35 cents.

Wisdom's Violet Cream

Is the most exquisite preparation in the world for softening the hands and face. It is not only a substitute for, but in every respect superior to glycerine, cold cream, vaseline, and like preparations. Try it. D. E. Campbell, agent.

Got Safely to Freedom.

The schooner Lampa, from Manila to Port Townsend, brought in a stowaway who turns out to be one Alfred Pacard, the cashier of a large sugar plantation in Manila, who has skipped that country $12,000 short in his accounts. Her Face Her Fortune.

Is commonly said of famous beauties. She who uses with artistic taste Wisdom's Famous Robertine has fortune in the possessing of a complexion to which nothing but the blush of the rose or the freshness of the lily can be compared. The Royal Commission.

The Royal Commission, composed of His Lordship Chief Justice Sir Matthew Begbie and Mr. Justice Drake, sat this morning in the Divisional Court room. The question of the gravel pits sale was taken up first, the contention of the complainants being that the sale was notjustified, and that the property was required for municipal purposes. Mr. Snider gave evidence as a contractor on the quality of the gravel, and the supply of gravel generally in this part. The hearing was largely attended.

Have You a Boy?

A golden opportunity is now offered to those having boys between the age of seven and twelve years. As an exceptionally fine range of boys sample suits in Scotch, English and Canadian tweeds, and from the fact that they are samples are particularly well made and neatly finished. Belfast on the West Coast.

The new townsite of Belfast on the west coast was visited by Messrs. Braden, Ashflant, Flett, Buckman and Thompson last week, and the property inspected. The land is fronting on one of the best harbors in the world. During the gales of last week the water in the harbor was as placid as a mill pond. The place is easily accessible by railway, and an extension of the steam highway will no doubt be something of the near future. The site is unsurpassed for the building of a new town. The scenery is beautiful in the extreme.

A Rumored Change.

It is again rumored that the Puget Sound & Alaska Steamship Company and the Northern Pacific Railway have got control of the Union Pacific boats. It is said that E. Dickenson, the assistant general manager of the Union Pacific, who visited this coast last spring and made several trips over the routes with Capt. Jackson, manager of the Puget Sound Company, made an offer then to sell the boats. It is said that this offer has now been accepted and that the Puget Sound Company practically controls all of the large boats on the Sound. It is well known that none of the U. P. boats have been making money lately. Railway and steamboat men in this city have heard the rumor, but have received no official notice of any change.

Will Be Captured Again.

Ray Gillman, or rather Albert Killen, who got away from the police cells on Friday night, is a crook of the first water. He is wanted at Tacoma and Port Townsend for theft, and knowing that, took the E. & N. route out of the city on Saturday morning and will probably make for Nanaimo. He is sure to be caught, as his description has been wired to the police there. It is said that his parents are among the wealthiest land owners in Honolulu, and his unnatural craving for morphine has drawn the lad from a luxurious home. His whole body is one mass of sores, showing where the deadly drug has been injected.

LATER. Supt. Sheppard received a telegraph message from Constable Stewart of Nanaimo at half past three this afternoon which stated that Gillman had been captured at Chemainus and taken to Nanaimo. An officer will go up for him to-morrow.

The World Enriched.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring time or, in fact, at any time and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

SAN PEDRO ON THE ROCKS.

The Big Steamer Laden With Coal is in a Dangerous Place.

A series of short, sharp whistles last evening about 9:30 o'clock off Beacon Hill gave people in that neighborhood the impression that there was a steamer in distress. There was a rush in the direction that the sounds came from, when in the distance could be seen a huge black mass floating close in shore, rather too close for the size of the vessel. The night was not very dark; although the moon was not shining there was some light from the stars. It was shortly discovered that the vessel was the steam collier San Pedro, bound from Comox to San Francisco, coal laden. She was steaming down quietly at slow rate when she struck and settled on the rock near Brotchie Ledge buoy. In fact she had almost stopped before she struck, but a big vessel like that with five thousand tons of coal in her hold has a great deal of impetus even after the engines have been stopped. She did not seem to strike heavily, but listed over almost at once and is lying there now.

It was seen that any effort at pulling her off would be fraught with further danger if tried at night, so she was allowed to remain till this morning, when divers were sent down to ascertain the extent of the damage.

The San Bonita, which happened to be here, upward bound, stayed by the disabled vessel to render any assistance possible.

At daybreak this morning a gang of longshoremen were engaged to lighten the vessel, and tons of coal were lifted from her main hold and thrown overboard. A diver from the navy went down to see the extent of her injuries, and he reports that about thirty feet of her port garboard strake is torn away. Through this hole the water poured in, and in spite of pumps flowed into the vessel's hold, and shortly before ten o'clock this afternoon she settled down aft and rolled over to port. The longshoremen who were discharging coal had to make a lively jump to save a wetting. About a dozen got on the buoy, which broke adrift and floated alongside the wreck. The San Pedro is now under water from midships aft, only her bow being above water.

When the vessel struck she was under the pilotage of Captain James Christiansen, sr., one of the oldest and most experienced pilots in British Columbia waters. This is the first serious accident that ever befel a vessel when in his charge, and his many friends deplore the accident.

The San Pedro is an iron steamer of 331.3 feet in length, 42.2 feet beam, and 19 5 feet depth of hold. She is 3,119.02 tons, and 2,000 horsepower; was built by John Roach & Sons, of Philadelphia, Pa., in 1882.

WRECK OF THE SARAH.

A Strong Statement Made on Behalf of the Crew.

TO THE EDITOR: In behalf of ordinary justice, to say nothing of humanity, I would ask space in your paper to state the crew's side of the story of the wreck of the bark Sarah, of which so much has been said in the papers recently. I ask this with more confidence, being informed that the TIMES is always ready to champion the cause of the down-trodden or unfortunate of whatever race or calling.

In making this statement I will try and confine myself to facts. There are nine of us, part of the crew of the bark Sarah, stranded on a coast thousands of miles from home, no means, hardly a stitch of clothing except what we stand in—and as if this were not enough—branded in the papers as having deserted our vessel in the most cowardly, and inhuman manner, and robbed of the wages coming to us. The papers have given an account of a so-called investigation held by Collector Milne, as receiver of wrecks, and a Capt. Cox, who sat with him part of the time. I do not know how this Court of Enquiry was constituted, but it seems to me, if this court had any power at all, it was to enquire into the cause of the wrecking of the vessel. But the facts as to how the vessel went ashore were not wanted and would not be heard, and if any of us attempted to say anything in our defence, we were promptly ordered to stop and only to answer what we were asked. To this so-called Court of Enquiry we were not summoned. We were not informed even of the object of the enquiry. We were not allowed an attorney to conduct our case. The evidence given was not sworn to by either the officers or the crew. We were snubbed and berated and sneered at and preached to by the court without being allowed to put in any defence, and all this in a land that flies the British flag and where we might expect British law and justice.

When this farce of an investigation was concluded our landlord was instructed not to supply any more food or lodging to us at the expense of the ship, and we even were turned adrift to beg or starve as might seem best to us. We went to several influential men, who, influenced by the newspaper reports, indignantly denied us any assistance as criminals who were undergoing just punishment, and had it not been for the sympathy and practical assistance of our large-hearted Mayor Grant we would have been in a worse condition than being shipwrecked amongst savages.

I would ask the public to suspend judgment in our case until inquiry is made by a court of competent jurisdiction, and until we have been allowed to put in a defence—for the matter is not settled yet by any means. In reply to the charge made in the papers that we deserted our ship without orders, I would say, we were ordered to lower the boat we left in, and it was time to do so when our vessel was ashore, half full of water, keeled over almost on her beam ends, in danger of going clear over any minute. When asked "who is to go in the boat?" the first mate answered, "any of you can go in the boat." We wanted the captain's wife to go, but she refused to go until her husband left, and we all knew his duty was to stay by the ship till the last boat. We did not let go from the ship. A heavy sea struck us and the painter was either carried away or unhooked, and the boat's stern was smashed so that she leaked badly. We could not have returned to the ship without the greatest danger to the boat and ourselves. There was no necessity, as there were three boats left on board. When we reached the lighthouse every man volunteered to go with the light-keeper to the assistance of those left. When we did reach the wreck we found the captain and his wife, the first mate and what remained of the crew on shores having saved nearly all their clothe and personal effects.

Our condition here is not the worst part of it, to at least some of us—as our families at home are in need of means we cannot send them. For my own part, having in addition to my clothing lost all my tools, I am rendered almost helpless to earn means.

In conclusion I would say, we do not ask charity. We do not want sympathy so much as simple justice. In regard to the responsibility for the loss of the ship, this is a matter that is in able hands and will be fully enquired into, and when certain facts are brought out they will throw a flood of light on the recent actions of the officers of the ship and their desire to blame the crew for one thing in order to screen themselves from another. ANGUS LEITCH,
Late carpenter bark Sarah.
Vancouver Hotel, Nov. 23, 1891.

CROSSLEY AND HUNTER.

The Evangelists Commence Revival Meetings in the Churches.

Messrs. Crossley and Hunter, the evangelists, arrived from the east on Saturday evening. A business meeting was held shortly after they arrived to arrange the plan of campaign. The following officers were elected: Secretaries, Rev. White, and Mr. F. W. Teague; financial committee, Rev. Mr. Dobbs, chairman; T. G. Rayner, treasurer; Noah Shakespeare, Thomas Haughton, J. L. Leigh, A. B. Erskine, R. B. McMicking; news committee, Mr. Howell and Rev. C. W. Townsend.

Mr. Hunter preached in the Pandora street Methodist church yesterday morning to a large congregation, Mr. Crossley also having a large congregation at the Calvary Baptist church. In the afternoon both gentlemen addressed a mass meeting in the First Presbyterian church and in the evening they conducted the services in the Pandora street Methodist church. The Methodist church was crowded to the doors last evening, many being unable to obtain admittance. The evangelists will preach every evening in the Pandora street Presbyterian church and next Sunday afternoon a meeting will be held in the Victoria Theatre for men only.

THE TABERNACLE PULPIT

DR. TALMAGE PREACHES ABOUT THE TEMPLE OF DIANA.

Continuation of the Brooklyn Divine's Series of Discourses on His Travels in the East—His Visit to the City of Ephesus Described in Detail.

BROOKLYN, Nov. 15.—Dr. Talmage continued this morning his series of sermons entitled, "From the Pyramids to the Acropolis." This sermon, which is the fifth of the series, is concerned with the doctor's visit to Ephesus, of which city, with its wonderful temple and other buildings, he gives a vivid description, with characteristic exegetical comments on obscure passages of Scripture. His text was Acts xix, 34, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians."

We have landed this morning at Smyrna, a city of Asiatic Turkey. One of the seven churches of Asia once stood here. You read in Revelation, "To the church in Smyrna write." It is a city that has often been shaken by earthquake, swept by conflagration, blasted by plagues and butchered by war, and here Bishop Polycarp stood in a crowded amphitheater and when he was asked to give up the advocacy of the Christian religion and save himself from martyrdom, the proconsul saying, "Swear and I release thee; reproach Christ," replied, "Eighty and six years have I served him, and he never did me wrong; how then can I revile my King and Saviour?"

When he was brought to the fires into which he was about to be thrust, and the officials were about to fasten him to the stake, he said: "Let me remain as I am, for he who giveth me strength to sustain the fire will enable me also without your securing me with nails to remain unmoved in the fire." History says the fires refused to consume him, and under the winds the flames bent outward so that they did not touch his person, and therefore he was slain by swords and spears. One cypress bending over his grave is the only monument to Bishop Polycarp.

ON THE WAY TO EPHESUS.

But we are on the way to the city of Ephesus, about fifty miles from Smyrna. We are advised not to go to Ephesus. The bandits in that region have had an ugly practice of cutting off the ears of travelers and sending these specimens of ears down to Smyrna, demanding a ransom. The bandits suggest to the friends of the persons from whom the ears have been subtracted that if they would like to have the rest of the body they will please send an appropriate sum of money. If the money is not sent the mutilated prisoners will be assassinated. One traveler was carried off to the robbers' den, and $7,500 was paid for his rescue. The bandits were caught and beheaded, and pictures of these ghastly heads are on sale in the shops of Smyrna for any persons who may desire to have something to look at on their way to Ephesus.

There have been cases where ten and twenty and thirty and forty thousand dollars have been demanded by these brigands. We did not feel like putting our friends to such expense, and it was suggested that we had better omit Ephesus. But that would have been a disappointment from which we would never recover. We must see Ephesus—associated with the most wonderful apostolic scenes. We hire a special railway train, and in about an hour and a half we arrive at the city of Ephesus, which was called "The Great Metropolis of Asia," and "One of the Eyes of Asia," and "The Empress of Ionia," the capital of all learning and magnificence. Here, as I said, was one of the seven churches of Asia, and first of all we visit the ruins of that church where once an ecumenical council of two thousand ministers of religion was held.

Mark the fulfillment of the prophesy. Of the seven churches of Asia four were commended in the Book of Revelation and three were doomed. The cities having the four commended churches still stand; the cities having the three doomed churches are wiped out. It occurred just as the Bible said it would occur. Drive on and you come to the theater, which was 660 feet from wall to wall, capable of holding 56,700 spectators. Here and there the walls arise almost unbroken, but for the most part the building is down. Just enough of it is left to help the imagination build it up as it was when those audiences shouted and clapped at some great spectacular. Their huzzas must have been enough to stun the heavens.

As I took my place at the center of this theater and looked around at its broken layers of stone, gallery upon gallery, gallery upon gallery, and piled up into the bleak skies of that winter day, and thought that every hand that swung a trowel on these walls, and every foot that trod those stairs, and every eye that gazed on that amphitheater, and every voice that greeted the combatants in that arena had gone out of hearing and sight for ages on ages, I felt a thrill of interest that almost prostrated me amid the ruins.

Standing there we could not forget that in that building once assembled a riotous throng for Paul's condemnation, because what he preached collided with the idolatry of their national goddess. Paul tried to get into that theater and address the excited multitude, but his friends held him back, lest he be torn in pieces by the mob, and the recorder of the city had to read the riot act among the people who had shrieked for two mortal hours till their throats were sore and they were black in the face, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians."

THE STADIUM.

Now we step into the Stadium. Enough of its walls and appointments are left to show what a stupendous place it must have been when used for foot races and for fights with wild beasts. It was a building 680 feet long by 300 feet wide. Paul refers to what transpired there in the way of spectacle when he says, "We have been made a spectacle." "Yes," Paul says, "I have fought with beasts at Ephesus," an expression usually taken as figurative, but I suppose it was literally true, for one of the amusements in that Stadium was to put a disliked man in the arena with a hungry lion or tiger or panther, and let the fight go on until either the man or the beast or both were slain.

It must have been great fun for these haters of Christianity to hear that on the morrow in the Stadium in Ephesus the missionary Paul would, in the presence of the crowded galleries, fight a hungry lion. The people were early there to get the best seats, and a more alert and enthusiastic crowd never assembled. They took their dinners with them. And was there ever a more unequal combat proposed? Paul, according to tradition, small, crooked backed and weak eyed, but the grandest man in sixty centuries, is led to the center as the people shout: "There he comes, the preacher who has nearly ruined our religion. The lion will make but a brief mouthful of him."

It is plain that all the sympathies of that crowd are with the lion. In one of the underground rooms I hear the growl of the wild beasts. They have been kept for several days without food or water in order that they may be especially ravenous and bloodthirsty. What chance is there for Paul? But you cannot tell by a man's size or looks how stout a blow he can strike or how keen a blade he can thrust. Witness, heaven and earth and hell, this struggle of Paul with a wild beast. The coolest man in the Stadium is Paul. What has he to fear? He has defied all the powers, earthly and infernal, and if his body tumble under the foot and tooth of the wild beast, his soul will only the sooner find disenthrallment. But it is his duty, as far as possible, to preserve his life.

Now, I hear the bolt of the wild beast's door shoved back, and the whole audience rise to their feet as the fierce brute springs for the arena and toward its small occupant. I think the first plunge that was made by the wild beast at the apostle was made on the point of a sharp blade, and the snarling monster, with a howl of pain and reeking with gore, turns back. But now the little missionary has his turn of making attack, and with a few well directed thrusts the monster lies dead in the dust of the arena, and the apostle puts his right foot on the lion and shakes him, and then puts his left foot on him and shakes him—a scene which Paul afterward uses for an illustration when he wants to show how Christ will triumph over death—"He must reign till he hath put all enemies under his feet"—yes, under his feet.

Paul told the literal truth when he said, "I have fought with beasts at Ephesus," and as the plural is used I think he had more than one such fight, or several beasts were let loose upon him at one time. As we stood that day in the middle of the Stadium and looked around at the great structure, the whole scene came back upon us.

LET US HASTEN ON.

But we pass out of the Stadium, for we are in haste for other places of interest in Ephesus. To add to the excitement of the day one of our party was missing. No man is safe in that region alone unless he be armed and know how to take sure aim and not miss fire. Our companion, Dr. Louis Klopsch, now the publisher of The Christian Herald, had gone out on some explorations of his own, and through the gate where Paul had walked again and again, yet where no man unaccompanied should adventure now. But after some time had passed and every minute seemed as long as an hour, and we had time to imagine everything horrible in the way of robbery and assassination, the lost traveler appeared, to receive from our entire party a volley of expostulation for the arousal of so many anxieties.

In the midst of this city of Ephesus once floated an artificial lake, brilliant with painted boats, and through the river Cayster it was connected with the sea, and ships from all parts of the known earth floated in and out, carrying on a commerce which made Ephesus the envy of the world. Great was Ephesus! Its gymnasia, its hippodrome, its odeon, its athenæum, its forum, its aqueducts (whose skeletons are still strewn along the city), its towers, its Castle of Hadrian, its monument of Androclus, its quarries, which were the granite cradle of cities; its temples, built to Apollo, to Minerva, to Neptune, to Mercury, to Bacchus, to Hercules, to Cæsar, to Fortune, to Jupiter Olympus. What history and poetry and chisel and canvas have not presented has come up at the call of archæologists' powder blast and crowbar.

DIANA'S TEMPLE.

But I have now to unveil the chief wonder of this chiefest of cities. In 1863, under the patronage of the English government, Mr. Wood, the explorer, began at Ephesus to feel along under the ground at great depths for roads, for walls, for towers, and here it is—that for which Ephesus was more celebrated than all else besides—the temple of the goddess Diana, called the sixth wonder of the world, and in 1889 we stood amid the ruins of that temple, measuring its pillars, transfixed by its sculpture and confounded at what was the greatest temple of idolatry in all time.

As I sat on a piece of one of its fallen columns I said, "What earthquake rocked it down, or what hurricane pushed it to the earth, or under what strong wine of centuries did the giant stagger and fall?" There have been seven temples of Diana, the ruins of each contributing something for the splendor of all its architectural successors. Two hundred and twenty years was this last temple in construction. Twice as long as the United States have stood was that temple in building. It was nearly twice as large as St. Paul's cathedral, London. Lest it should be disturbed by earthquakes, which have always been fond of making those regions their playground, the temple was built on a marsh, which was made firm by layers of charcoal, covered by fleeces of wool. The stone came from the quarry near by.

After it was decreed to build the temple it was thought it would be necessary to bring the building stone from other lands, but one day a shepherd by the name of Pixodorus, while watching his flocks, saw two rams fighting, and as they missed the interlocking of their horns and one fell his horn knocked a splinter from the rock and showed by that splinter the lustrous whiteness of the rock. The shepherd ran to the city with a piece of that stone, which revealed a quarry from which place the temple was built, and every month in all ages since the mayor of Ephesus goes to that quarry to offer sacrifices to the memory of that shepherd who discovered this source of splendor and wealth for the cities of Asia Minor.

In removing the great stones from the quarry to their destined places in the temple, it was necessary, in order to keep the wheels, which were twelve feet in diameter, from sinking deep into the earth under the unparalleled heft, that a frame of timbers be arranged over which the wheels rolled. To put the immense block of marble in its place over the doorway of one of these temples was so vast and difficult an undertaking that the architect at one time gave it up, and in his chagrin intended suicide, but one night in his sleep he dreamed that the stone had settled to the right place, and the next day he found that the great block of marble had, by its own weight, settled to the right place.

The temple of Diana was four hundred and twenty-five feet long by two hundred and twenty feet wide. All Asia was taxed to pay for it. It had one hundred and twenty-seven pillars, each sixty feet high, and each the gift of a king, and inscribed with the name of the donor. Now you see the meaning of that passage in Revelation, just as a king presenting one of these pillars to the Temple of Diana had his own name chiseled on it and the name of his own country, so says Christ, "Him that overcometh will I make a pillar in the temple of my God, and I will write upon him the name of my God and the name of the city of my God, which is New Jerusalem, and I will write upon him my new name." How suggestive and beautiful!

Victoria Sept. 7, 1891. se7-tf over while amid the ruins of Diana's temple, I saw afterward eight of those pillars at Constantinople, to which city they had been removed, and are now a part of the Mosque of St. Sophia. Those eight columns are all green jasper, but some of those which stood in Diana's temple at Ephesus were fairly drenched with brilliant colors. Costly metals stood up in various parts of the temple, where they could catch the fullest flush of the sun. A flight of stairs was carved out of one grapevine. Doors of cypress wood, which had been kept in glue for years and bordered with bronze in bas relief, swung against pillars of brass and resounded with echo upon echo, caught up and sent on and hurled back through the corridors.

In that building stood an image of Diana, the goddess. The impression was abroad as the Bible records, that that image had dropped plumb out of heaven into that temple, and the sculptors who really made the statue or image were put to death, so that they could not testify of its human manufacture and so deny its celestial origin. It was thought by intelligent people that the material from which this idol was formed might have dropped out of heaven as an aerolite. We have seen in the British museum, and in universities of our own west, blocks of stone hurled off from other worlds. These aerolites were seen to fall, and witnesses have gone to the landing places, and scientists have pronounced them to be the product of other worlds.

But the material out of which the image of Diana was fashioned contradicts that notion. This image was carved out of ebony and punctured here and there with openings kept full of spikenard so as to hinder the statue from decaying and make it aromatic, but this ebony was covered with bronze and alabaster. A necklace of acorns coiled gracefully around her. There were four lions on each arm, typical of strength. Her head was coroneted. Around this figure stood statues which by wonderful invention shed tears. The air by strange machinery was damp with descending perfumes. The walls multiplied the scene by concaved mirrors. Fountains tossed in sheaves of light and fell in showers of diamonds.

Praxiteles, the sculptor, and Apelles, the painter, filled the place with their triumphs. Crœsus, the wealthiest of the ancients, put here and there in the temple golden heifers. The paintings were so vivid and lifelike that Alexander, who was moved at nothing of terror, shuddered at one battle scene on these walls, and so true to life was a painting of a horse that when Alexander's horse was led up to it he began to neigh, as one horse is accustomed to greet another. One painting in that temple cost $100,750. The treasures of all nations and the spoils of kingdoms were kept here for safe deposit. Criminals from all lands fled to the shelter of this temple, and the law could not touch them. It seemed almost strange that this mountain of architectural snow outside did not melt with the fires of color within.

The temple was surrounded with groves, in which roamed for the temptation of hunters, stags and hares and wild boars, and all styles of game, whether winged or four footed. There was a cave with statue so intensely brilliant that it extinguished the eye of those who looked upon it, unless, at the command of the priest, the hand of the spectator somewhat shaded the eyes. No wonder that even Anthony and Alexander and Darius cried out in the words of my text, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians."

One whole month of each year, the month of May, was devoted to her worship. Processions in garbs of purple and violet and scarlet moved through it, and there were torches and anthems, and choirs in white, and timbrels and triangles in music, sacrifices and dances. Here young men and maidens were betrothed with imposing ceremony. Nations voted large amounts to meet the expense of the worship. Fisheries of vast resource were devoted to the support of this resplendence. Horace and Virgil and Homer went into rhapsodies while describing this worship.

All artists, all archæologists, all centuries, agreed in saying, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians." Paul, in the presence of this Temple of Diana, incorporates it in his figures of speech while speaking of the spiritual temple, "Now, if any man build upon this foundation, gold, silver, precious stones, etc.," and no doubt with reference to one of the previous temples which had been set on fire by Herostratus just for the fame of destroying it, Paul says, "If any man's work shall be burned, he shall suffer loss, etc.," and all up and down Paul's writings you realize that he had not only seen, but had been mightily impressed with what he had seen of the Temple of Diana.

HERE MARY WAS BURIED.

In this city the mother of Jesus was said to have been buried. Here dwelt Aquilla and Priscilla of Bible mention, who were professors in an extemporized theological seminary, and they taught the eloquent Apollos how to be eloquent for Christ. Here John preached, and from here because of his fidelity he was exiled to Patmos. Here Paul warred against the magical arts for which Ephesus was famous. The sorcerers of this city pretended that they could cure diseases, and perform almost any miracle, by pronouncing these senseless words, "Aski Cataski Lix Tetrax Damnameneus Aision."

Paul having performed a miracle in the name of Jesus, there was a lying family of seven brothers who imitated the apostle, and instead of their usual words of incantation used the word Jesus over a man who was possessed of a devil, and the man possessed flew at them in great fierceness and nearly tore these frauds to pieces, and in consequence all up and down the streets of Ephesus there was indignation excited against the magical arts, and a great bonfire of magical books was kindled in the streets, and the people stirred the blaze until thirty-five thousand dollars' worth of black art literature had been burned to ashes.

But, all the glory of Ephesus I have described has gone now. At some seasons of the year awful malarias sweep over the place and put upon mattress or in graves a large portion of the population. In the approximate marshes scorpions, centipedes and all forms of reptilian life crawl and hiss and sting, while hyenas and jackals at night slink in and out of the ruins of buildings which once startled the nations with their almost supernatural grandeur.

But here is a lesson which has never yet been drawn out. Do you not see in that temple of Diana an expression of what the world needs. It wants a God who can provide food. Diana was a huntress, in pictures on many of the coins she held a stag by the horn with one hand and a bundle of arrows in the other. Oh, this is a hungry world! Diana could not give one pound of meat or one mouthful of food to the millions of her worshipers. She was a dead divinity, an imaginary god, and so in idolatrous lands the vast majority of people never have enough to eat. It is only in the countries where the God of heaven and earth is worshiped that the vast majority have enough to eat. Let Diana have her arrows and her bounds. Our God has the sunshine and the showers and the harvests, and in proportion as he is worshiped does plenty reign.

THE NEED OF A REFUGE.

So also in the Temple of Diana the world expressed its need of a refuge. To it from all parts of the land came debtors who could not pay their debts and the offenders of the law that they might escape incarceration. But she sheltered them only a little while, and while she kept them from arrest she could not change their hearts and the guilty remained guilty. But, our God in Jesus Christ is a refuge into which we may fly from all our sins and all our pursuers, and not only be safe for time, but safe for eternity, and the guilt is pardoned and the nature is transformed. What Diana could not do for her worshipers, our Christ accomplishes for us,

Rock of ages cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in thee.

Then, in that temple were deposited treasures from all the earth for safe keeping. Chrysostom says it was the treasure house of nations; they brought gold and silver and precious stones and coronets from across the sea, and put them under the care of Diana of the Ephesians. But again and again were those treasures ransacked, captured or destroyed. Nero robbed them, the Scythians scattered them, the Goths burned them. Diana failed those who trusted her with treasures, but our God, to him we may intrust all our treasures for this world and the next, and fall any one who puts confidence in him he never will. After the last jasper column has fallen, and the last temple on earth has gone into ruins, and the world itself has suffered demolition, the Lord will keep for us our best treasures.

But notice what killed Ephesus and what has killed most of the cities that lie buried in the cemetery of nations. Luxury! The costly baths, which had been the means of health to the city became its ruin. Instead of the cold baths that had been the invigoration of the people, the hot baths, which are only intended for the infirm or the invalid, were substituted. In these hot baths many lay most of the time. Authors wrote books while in these baths. Business was neglected and a hot bath taken four or five times a day. When the keeper of the baths was reprimanded for not having them warm enough one of the rulers said, "You blame him for not making the bath warm enough; I blame you because you have it warm at all."

But that warm bath which enervated Ephesus, and which is always enervating except when followed by cold baths (no reference, of course, to delicate constitutions), was only a type of what went on in all departments of Ephesian life, and in luxurious indulgence Ephesus fell, and the last triangle of music was tinkled in Diana's temple, and the last wrestler disappeared from her gymnasiums, and the last racer took his garland in the Stadium, and the last plea was heard in her Forum, and even the sea, as if to withdraw the last commercial opportunity from that metropolis, retreated down the beach, leaving her without the harbor in which had floated a thousand ships. Brooklyn, New York, London and all modern cities, cisatlantic and transatlantic, take warning! What luxury unguarded did for Ephesus, luxury unguarded may do for all. Opulence and splendor God grant to all the people, to all the cities, to all the land, but at the same time, may he grant the righteous use of them.

CONSECRATE ALL TO GOD'S GLORY.

Gymnasiums? Yes, but see that the vigor gained in them be consecrated to God. Magnificent temples of worship? Yes, but see that in them instead of conventionalities and cold pomp of service there be warmth of devotion and the pure Gospel preached. Imposing court houses? Yes, but in them let justice and mercy rule. Palaces of journalism? Yes, but let all of the printing presses be marshaled for happiness and truth. Great postoffice buildings? Yes, but through them day by day, may correspondence helpful, elevating and moral pass. Ornate dwelling houses? Yes, but in them let there be altars of devotion, and conjugal, filial, paternal and Christian fidelity rule. London for magnitude, Berlin for universities, Paris for fashions, Rome for cathedrals, Athens for classics, Thebes for hieroglyphics, Memphis for tombs, Babylon for gardens, Ephesus for idolatry, but what shall be the characteristics of our American cities when they shall have attained their full stature? Would that "holiness to the Lord" might be inscribed upon all our municipalities. One thing is certain, and that is that all idolatry must come down. When the greatest goddess of the earth, Diana, enshrined in the greatest temple that ever stood, was prostrated at Ephesus, it was a prophecy of the overthrow of all the idolatries that have cursed the earth, and anything we love more than God is an idol, and there is as much idolatry in the Nineteenth century as in the First, and in America as in Asia.

As our train pulled out from the station at Ephesus, the cars surrounded by the worst looking group of villains I ever gazed on, all of them seeming in a wrangle with each other and trying to get into a wrangle with us, and we moved along the columns of ancient aqueducts, each column crowned with storks, having built their nests there, and we rolled on down toward Smyrna, and that night in a sailor's bethel as we spoke of the Christ whom the world must know or perish, we felt that between cradle and grave there could not be anything much more enthralling for body, mind and soul than our visit to Ephesus.

Never put a somber colored picture in the shade. Put it where the light will fall upon it. Between two windows place pictures with light backgrounds that will stand out the more prominent by reason of their dark surroundings. Hang the big pictures first, in suitable positions, and group with smaller ones in two rows in between. Be careful that the pictures do not conflict in color. Use your own taste in this. It is impossible to give any brief rule on the subject. Hang the pictures on a level with the eye, unless they be, as some are, pictures which should be looked up to.

Place small pictures in corners and alcoves. Over doors place large and unimportant canvases—anything that looks well. Water colors may be hung on the same wall with oils when framed in gold, but not when framed in white. White margins on etchings and engravings don't go well with oils. The main light should be on the picture.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Tea and Coffee Necessaries of Life.

It seems curious to think that tea and coffee, which Europe got on without for 6,000 years, should at last have become one of the necessaries of life. Neither have food properties in their component parts; they give neither flesh, fat nor bone, being simply stimulant in their effects upon the system. Another curious fact is that which tells us that both tea and coffee acquire their stimulating powers from a principal named theine, of which no other known plants possess any considerable quantity.—St. Louis Republic.

King of Medicines

A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, scrofula, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed 6 years. In that time ten or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well.

"Early in 1886 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system, I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEHR, 9 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

HAVE NOT LOST A SINGLE DAY

COAL

The New Vancouver Coal Mining & Land Co., L'd.

(FORMERLY THE VANCOUVER COAL CO.),

ARE THE LARGEST COAL PRODUCERS ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

THE NANAIMO COAL (Used principally for Gas and Domestic Purposes). | THE SOUTH FIELD COAL (Steam Fuel).

THE NEW WELLINGTON COAL House and Steam Coal) are mined by this Company only.

THE "NANAIMO" COAL gives a large percentage of Gas, a high Illuminating Power unequalled by any other bituminous Gas Coal in the world, and a superior quality of Coke.

THE "SOUTH FIELD" COAL is now used on all the Leading Steamship Lines on the Pacific.

THE "NEW WELLINGTON" COAL which was introduced early in the present year, has already become a favorite fuel for domestic purposes. It is a clean, hard coal, makes a bright and cheerful fire, and its lasting qualities make it the most economical fuel in the market.

The several Mines of the Company are connected with their Wharves at Nanaimo and Departure Bay where ships of the largest tonnage are loaded at all states of the tide. Special dispatch is given to Mail and Ocean steamers.

WRESTLING.

Dan McLeod left for Nanaimo to-day to get ready for his match with Durrett, which takes place on Wednesday evening at the Victoria Theatre. Dan is to throw Durrett five times in one hour or forfeit $250.

The San Francisco Cronicle, a few days ago, stated that if McLeod could throw Fitzsimmons five times in one hour he would have a snap with Acton, and said if he wanted a match to go down. A reporter of the TIMES asked him if he would accept that challenge? He stated that he had been down to San Francisco twice after Acton, had spent a lot of money, but had failed to bring Acton to the scratch. It is Acton's turn to move now, said McLeod, and if he wants a match let him come up here.

THE TURF

JUDGE BARR IS NO SPORT.

Judge Barr, of the United States court, at Covington, Ky., on Monday rendered a decision in the case of Brannan vs. the Latonia Jockey Club.

This is a suit brought by John Brannan, who was ruled off by the Latonia Jockey Club for participation in the Polk Badget swindle in September last. John Brannan was in Chicago at the time, and admitted having placed money on the horse, but denied that he had any knowledge that the horse was other than Polk Badget. Among the moving papers was an affidavit made by one J. E. Cushing, of Minneapolis, to the effect that John Brannan was under engagement to him to train a stable of horses in 1892, and that if Brannan was ruled off the engagement must of necessity be cancelled. Brannan swore in effect that the order practically prohibited him from gaining a livelihood as his business was that of a trainer.

The order of the court is, that the Latonia Jockey Club reinstate Brannan to all the rights and privileges of the club.

It is not at all likely that the Latonia Jockey Club will permit the matter to rest there. If the time has arrived when turf swindlers are to be placed under the special protection of the courts, it requires no gift of prophecy to foresee the end. Richard M. Brannan is still under the ban of expulsion.

The transfer of the property of the Saratoga Racing Association has been completed and a new organization effected. The sum paid for the property is stated at $250,000.

GENERAL GOSSIP.

J. C. Sibley, the well known horseman, says:—"My personal judgment is that the shape has little to do with it. I have seen our horses driven over different tracks—kite shaped—and I am convinced that it is more the character of the soil and the way the track is kept than its shape. Mr. Williams, has unquestionably, the fastest track on earth; not because it is kite snaped, but because of the manner in which he cares for it. I think that with any good prairie soil other tracks can be made just as fast. He has, as I understand it, two ditches, one outside and the other inside his track, running clear around it. In this way the water penetrates through the prairie soil and makes it as soft as a sponge and elastic as rubber. Given a good hard surface, the rebound acquired by a horse when going at a great speed, accelerates and eases the motion. My judgment is that many other tracks could be made equal to the Independence track if the same care is given. I write this because I understand Mr. Marvin is to start Sunol over the kite track at Stockton, and comparisons will be made from the shape of the track, rather than the fact that it is the water beneath the surface which gives the momentum to the rapidly moving body.

Handsome is as handsome does. Sunol is no beauty to look at, in fact she is of that peculiar conformation two inches higher behind than she is at the withers, which gives her an ungainly look and in her slow pace she does not captivate with her graceful movements. Once get her going, however, and the faster she travels the more even is her gait. Her low gliding motion is very deceptive and in her last successful trial to lower the world's record it is thought by many who witnessed it that she could if driven out to the last link that was in her have gone still a little faster. She is likely to have another bout with old father time before she is retired into winter quarters.

A quiet movement is on foot by the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association to buy a half interest in the Kentucky Running Association's property. It was brought about, it is generally conceded, on account of the fact that the running association is almost bankrupt.

The famous English jockey, John Osborne, has gone into retirement after a riding career of 45 years. He won all the leading races in England, and was never even suspected of dishonorable conduct. It has been decided to present "Honest John" with a testimonial, and among those who have already joined the committee are Prince Soltykoff, the Earl of Durham, the Earl of Bradford, the Marquis of Hartington, and, in fact, pretty well every honest man among English owners of race horses. The Prince of Wales will head the subscription list.

The skating season, which opened last week and was snowed under again, will probably be good again to us next week. There was water in the ice Friday, but Saturday night's frost made ice of it, but it is not safe.

The steamer Marion, which broke from her fastenings at Revelstoke last spring, drifted away and was supposed to have sunk in the deep water of Arrow lake, has been found and purchased by Capt. Sanderson. He has raised and brought her to Revelstoke and is putting her in order.

Dr. Furrer has received the appointment of physician and surgeon from the Canadian Pacific Railway for the Kamloops division, extending from Revelstoke to North Bend, with headquarters at Kamloops. He will enter upon his duties on the first day of December.

The hot springs on the east side of Upper Arrow lake are to be improved. The water is to be carried in pipes to the shores of the lake, where a fine site has been cleared on which a hotel will be built for the accomodation of visitors and invalids. The water of this spring is fully equal in curative properties to that of Banff. The owner, Capt. Sanderson, believes that the railroads projected in that section will make his property accessible the year round.

Four men only will winter in Big Bend, and no mail will be sent out till next spring. Altogether about $10,000 has been realized from the placer mines of Big Bend.

Mr. Jno. Douglas, a capitalist and practical assayer of New York, largely interested in Camp McKinny, has assayed samples from his new ledge on Boundary Creek, near Fourth of July Creek, running 700 ozs. to the ton—silver bearing ore.

Previous to his departure for Victoria to resume his many pressing official duties, Hon. Mr. Vernon gave the News considerable information respecting the public works it is the intention of the Government to carry on in this district next season, and expressed himself freely on several matters of local importance.

While at Victoria Mr. Lumby was informed by Mr. Ker (of Brackman & Ker) that his firm required 1000 tons of barley from this district next year.

The finance committee of the O. & S. Agricultural Society will shortly be in a position to publish the balance sheet of the accounts of the late show.

The weather has been very severe here the past week, the thermometer going down to zero—a most unusual thing for this time of the year—but the recent slight fall of snow appears to have broken the cold wave and we are looking for fine weather again.

THE TRUSTEES AND THE COUNCIL.

TO THE EDITOR:—What a change has come over the Education Department of late! The officials do not appear to read the newspapers with the avidity of years gone by. Who could have prophesied two years ago that the trustees of Victoria would, in the fulness of time, hold a prolonged investigation into the state of the schools, that the newspapers would publish comprehensive reports teeming with statements damaging to the administrative ability of those in charge of educational affairs, and that it would take the Department of Education six long months to discover that an investigation had taken place, witnesses had been examined and the incapacity of the Superintendent of Education exposed? Does the Superintendent of Education no longer read the newspapers? When two years ago the Legislature was enquiring into the merits of J. N. Muir's grievance, Dr. (then Mr.) Pope laid before the select committee about half a bushel of clippings from newspapers which he had carefully stowed away until they could be palmed off before a stupid committee as "unimpeachable evidence" of Mr. Muir's unfitness to teach in the public schools of the Province. So carefully had every word uttered and written by and against Mr. Muir been preserved that there was at the time a widespread feeling among the citizens that the Education Office exercised functions somewhat similar to those of a New York detective agency and that swift retribution would overtake those who ventured to criticize the methods of the department.

The superintendent is now anxious "to be furnished with the names of the witnesses" who have testified against him. Could anything be more childish? He knows that there has been a voluminous correspondence on the very matters in dispute between himself on the one hand and the trustees and the principal of the High school on the other. And if he reads the newspapers as he used to he cannot but know that in a letter to the Colonist Mr. McLeod, under his own signature, reiterated the charges that had been made before the Board of Trustees. And yet the Council of Public Instruction professes to be in Egyptian darkness in the matter! Fudge!

I am at a loss to understand why the council uses such an abundance of red tape in dealing with this grave matter, unless it be that the conviction has at length forced itself upon it that six months' hard labor in the Education Office has not been able to make the answers to the Latin questions fit the marks assigned.
